Darlene Bandazian has been named vice president of regional business development at Special Properties Real Estate Services, the brokerage firm announced Tuesday. Bandazian will oversee growth in the firm's New Jersey locations and participate in identifying future opportunities for the firm.

We are both pleased and excited that Darlene has chosen to affiliate with Special Properties Real Estate Services LLC," said Ilija Pavlovic, president and CEO of Special Properties Real Estate Services, in a statement.

“As a highly-respected leader in the industry, Darlene’s effectiveness to unify offices, from different geographic locations with diverse cultures, speaks to her instinctive leadership and teaching skills. Her most notable talent by far is her ability to connect with people. This is the exact expertise that becomes a benchmark for success.”

Bandazian is a member of the National Association of Realtors and the Garden State and Hudson Multiple Listing Services, to name a few. She has more than 30 years of experience for local and global firms.
